THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Mr. Dunn and The CIO

Washington, Aug. 1.—The CIO has become a somewhat precarious political occasion the benefits of which, to say the least, are doubtful. This is getting clearer as the primaries in all parts of the country attest its inability to make good either its promise or its threats.

This fact is brought out in the lead of a series of reports on "The Great American Hoax" by the Dunn Survey of Greenwich, Conn., which specializes on the subject of the political strength of the "Great American Hoax," according to the Dunn survey, is the fiction that the CIO-PAC leaders have anything like the political power they claim. The Dunn contention is that the great political power of CIO-PAC leaders does not rest on the basis of the union vote, which they do not have, but rests on the modern propaganda technique of fear, the theory (expounded in "Mein Kampf") that you can "tell a lie big that every one will believe it."

There is considerable evidence to sustain this charge. Certainly, there is no room for doubt that a large part of the CIO-PAC structure is built, sustained by a publicity and propaganda department more costly, extensive, and elaborate than anything of the kind in the country so big and expensive as to make corresponding activities of both major political parties and all other agencies and organizations seem tiny and trivial. By virtue of this unprecedented publicity machine the CIO-PAC has put over a picture of itself very much larger than life.

The Dunn assertion is that an unflinching ally directly responsible for the success of this strategy, is actually the entire leadership of the Republican party. For, commencing in 1940, it has persistently promoted the "false fear of the political power of the New Deal leader combine." Had these Republicans heeded the facts, the hony representations on which CIO-PAC power rests could have been exposed and destroyed four years ago. That is the Dunn argument. It is buttressed by the primary results up to the first of July in the following States: Alabama, California, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nebraska, New Jersey, North Carolina, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania and South Dakota.

In these 29 states, of the members of the House seeking renomination and opposed by the CIO-PAC, eighteen were renominated, one was defeated. In the same states, of the members voting for the Case bill and seeking renomination, all of whom had been threatened by CIO-PAC publicity, 126 were re-nominated.

When they were passing by in a car and saw a man climbing into a window of the Log Cabin roadside stand, Pipersville, the alertness of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Roman, Pipersville, resulted in the arrest of George Stoley, 51, a Negro, of Philadelphia, on Sunday.

Mrs. Roman, who lives across from the Lackawanna Trail roadside stand, just north of Pipersville, saw the colored man climb into the window and told her husband. With Francis Roman, and another neighbor, Christian Cullman, he waited until the man attempted to leave the building, when they caught him.

In the meantime, Mrs. Roman called the Doylestown sub-station of the Pennsylvania State Police and two troopers, J. R. Harris and Meyer H. Aulenback, were detailed to arrest the intruder.

Charged with burglary, the defendant admitted to the State Police to stealing a pint of whiskey and cigarettes. He gave as his excuse for entering the building the reason that he was thirsty and wanted a drink.

The defendant was employed at Camp Hofnung, Toltickon Park, a short distance further north up the Lackawanna Trail.

Trooper Harris said the defendant was committed to the County Prison, in default of bail, and will be given a further hearing some time today.

DRIVE TO CURB WHEN SIRENS WAIL

State Police Head Says The Right of Way Must Be Given at Such Times

WARNS ALL AUTOISTS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 1.—The importance of yielding right-of-way to police and fire department vehicles and ambulances responding to a call was stressed today in a statement by Colonel C. M. Wilhelm, commissioner, Pennsylvania State Police.

"While most vehicle operators understand that the sound of a siren warns of the approach of an emergency vehicle, many do not realize the importance of immediately clearing the highway," said the Commissioner.

"A siren indicates that the vehicle is responding to an emergency call. The motorist who does not immediately pull to the side of the road and stop may be blocking the path of fire equipment speeding to a blaze. An ambulance on an errand of mercy or police hurrying to the scene of a crime may be delayed. It is obvious that thoughtlessness in obstructing the movement of such vehicles can cause loss of life or heavy damage."

He further pointed out that the Pennsylvania Vehicle Code provides that upon audible signal indicating the approach of any police, fire department vehicle, ambulance or certain other vehicles used by fire departments, the driver of every other vehicle shall immediately drive as near as possible, and parallel to the right hand edge of curb of the highway clear of any intersection and stop. The law also provides that the vehicle shall remain in such position until the emergency equipment has passed or until other directions are given by a peace officer.

GRANTED DISCHARGE

George Irwin, S. 1/c, received his honorable discharge from the U. S. Navy, at Bainbridge, Md., last week. He served for one year, being stationed for some time on the "Topeka."

PENNSYLVANIA'S FUTURE

Recent figures showing the distribution by states of the total Federal taxes paid in 1945 are new straws in the wind to prove the blighting effect of the New Deal on the Pennsylvania Commonwealth.

Pennsylvania now ranks only fourth in total amount of Federal taxes, having contributed $3,203,325,456 out of the nation's total of $40,927,574,950. For generations she was second. Pennsylvania's tax-share figures out to 8 per cent, or one-twelfth. New York, as might be expected, heads the list with $8,115,899,670, about 20 per cent, or a fifth of the whole.

Illinois and California both paid more Federal taxes than Pennsylvania; Illinois $3,544,190,004 and California $3,365,842,491. Ohio stood next below this state with $2,588,444,313.

The significance of these figures lies in the fact that they are a pretty fair rule-of-thumb measure of the industrial activity of the states during 1945. Federal taxes were substantially uniform, and the higher the taxes the greater the industrial earnings.

This brings us to the dismaying fact that Pennsylvania, formerly a close second to New York as an industrial state, has dropped to fourth place. She has been passed by two states which formerly stood far below her, and is being crowded by another.

How did this come about? The answer goes deep into both politics and economics. And it bears strongly on the coming Congressional elections.

Up to the 1930 census, Pennsylvania had held her second-position place among the sisterhood of states for at least a century.

Since it is the Pennsylvania people who are involved, the best index of the state's economic health over wide periods of time will always be population. A prosperous state grows, not only in wealth, but in size; one which is stagnating loses—more people leave looking for jobs than the birth rate can overcome.

During the periods of Pennsylvania's prosperity, it has not been uncommon for the state to grow a million between census reports. It did so between each decade from 1880 and 1920. Between 1920 and 1930 it increased 10 per cent.

The depression hit Pennsylvania at the end of that time. But the depression hit the rest of the nation as well, and moreover, previous depressions had never thrown the State out of position with the whole country.

WAS GRANT'S SEC'Y

Frank Horn, a former well-known Bristolian, who has been serving as secretary to movie star Cary Grant, is in the news.

In Louella O. Parsons' "Hollywood" column appearing yesterday in the public press, and written by Dorothy Manners, substituting for Miss Parsons, there appeared the following:

"When Frank Horn was Cary Grant's secretary he used to ask him what was the best way to become a writer. 'Just write,' replied Cary, which is the best advice on the subject I've heard to date. Frank took his boss at his word and authored 'Feather On The Tide' which is so good that Rosalind Russell, Freddie Brissoll and Dudley Nichols have bought it. This is all very fine for everybody but Cary. He's out a good secretary."

Horn attended Bristol high school and upon a number of occasions appeared locally in theatrical productions here. He was the son of the late Frank and Mary Horn.

ONE MAN'S OPINION - -

By Walter Kiernan
(Distributed by International News Service)

The latest in transportation is a spunk-gun car (Howard Darrin) and a 60-foot bus (Henry Kaiser) . . . they sound like natural enemies to me.

I just hope that when the all-glass car passes the 60-foot bus on a crowded two-lane highway somebody is standing by with a broom and dustpan.

But I suppose that's one advantage of a glass car . . . you'd save towing charges after an accident.

Henry Ford is 83 this week and still hasn't begun to collect his old-age pension.

Henry is 33 years older than the Model T and still giving good mileage.

He is the type who used to be recommended as an example to the American boy but Henry introduced mass production which led to mass thinking.

The current ideal American man is a man who does exactly what 100 thousand other men do after they have been told to do it.

To Langhorne During Coming Term

CANGES IN FACULTY

HULMEVILLE, Aug. 1.—Definite plans have been made to transport seventh and eighth grade pupils from this area to Langhorne school buildings during the coming term, the group becoming part of the junior-senior high school.

This group, as well as local students of grades nine to 12, will be transported to Langhorne by bus. In order to care for the transportation, four buses will be placed in service, this being one more than last year. One of the older buses has been replaced by a new one, and an additional new vehicle brings the number up to four. The one new driver awarded a contract is Ferdinand Reetz. The four buses will be operated by the Langhorne, Langhorne-Middletown, Hulmeville and Langhorne-Manor districts.

Grades one to six will remain in the Hulmeville school building. There are also some changes noted in the local faculty. Frank Binder will remain as principal of the local school, the other three members of the faculty being: Miss Margaret Perry, Mrs. Charlotte Walsh and the Rev. Richard R. Gay. The previous staff numbered five, but with grades seven and eight no longer located here only four rooms will be required.

A ROOF FOR JOE

Veterans' organizations report growing bitterness among discharged veterans of World War II over their failure to find decent housing. The veterans blame the administration in Washington.

The fact is that the veterans' emergency housing program launched in January by the national housing agency is a shameful failure. The administration failed to get the key agencies together on a price and priority schedule that would have produced results.

For months the production of essential building material was blocked by such low price ceilings that producers could not meet their pay rolls, much less make a profit. Strikes in the steel and other industries held back production. Wilson W. Wyatt, Federal Housing expediter, is under fire as the goat in the failure.

Wyatt, who is well-intentioned, was tripped and pushed around by the left-wingers in Washington who want all housing taken over by the government so they can score another victory in their guerrilla warfare on private enterprise. They hope that homeless veterans will blame the building industry for the housing program failure. But veterans know where the blame lies.

WELCOME IF BELATED

In ordering a "complete investigation" of detective 4-2 mortar shells which killed American soldiers on the European front by bursting prematurely, Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royall has taken the only proper course. The American public will be content with nothing less than the full and unvarnished facts about this tragic matter. It has every right to know how many shells were defective, who produced them, how many boys were killed, and what the Army did to remedy the situation.

Although the public welcomes the investigation, it is disturbing that the War Department has waited until the facts were made public during the Senate committee's investigation into war profiteering to initiate this exhaustive inquiry. It would have looked better for the Army if it had begun to press its probe at the first reports that gun crews were being killed and maimed by defective ammunition.

Apparently some attempt was made to trace the source of the shells. But to judge from the testimony presented so far the results of this inquiry were inconclusive. Moreover, Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt, chief of the Army's Chemical Warfare Service, has been forced to make the damaging admission that the fact "might not" have come to light if it had not been for letters sent by soldiers to the Senate committee.

But the inquiry is now under way. May it bring enough facts to light to enable the nation to fix the blame firmly.

PENNSYLVANIA'S FUTURE

Since depression alone could not have checked the State's growth in relation to the rest of the nation, some cause other than depression might have entered the picture—for between 1930 and 1940, while the whole country was increasing 7 per cent, Pennsylvania grew only 2.7 per cent. The actual increase was a bare quarter of a million.

The real cause is not hard to find. It lies, not in the depression, but in the New Deal methods of handling the depression. These were left here with severe force when the "Little New Deal" came into control of the State government and the infamous "flight of industry" was encouraged.

Pennsylvania's economy suffered a shock (as the figures abundantly prove) by reason of this Democratic regime at Harrisburg, from which the Commonwealth has not yet wholly recovered. While the national population has continued to grow by leaps and bounds, that of Pennsylvania has stood virtually still since the birth of the New Deal.

There is reason to suspect that the number of people living in Pennsylvania today is less than when the Democrats came into power.

Certainly the tax-figures draw a picture of a decline in ratio of earnings which would confirm such a surmise.

The Federal planners have insisted on a program which has struck this state with especial severity. One phase of it, of course, is the notorious "resettlement" scheme, by which populations would be forcibly shifted out of rich industrial states such as Pennsylvania formerly was, through the slowing down of job-opportunities here.

Another is the use of Federal resources and influence to favor competitive industries in other parts of the nation—some of them now almost wholly Socialistic in concept and operation.

There is no record that either of the two New Deal Senators now representing Pennsylvania in the Upper House of Congress has yet protested this bleeding away of the Commonwealth's industrial resources. Instead, they both have prided themselves on the "regularity" with which they have supported the measures which are thus putting an ever-lower ceiling on the State's prospects.

The hope for Pennsylvania's future lies in compelling the National Government to modify its semi-Communist program which bids fair in time produce an industrial wilderness from Marcus Hook to Erie.

That means the electing of a solid Republican delegation for the Lower House of Congress, and the election of Governor Martin to the U. S. Senate.

Pennsylvania, cradle of liberty, arsenal of Democracy, industrial mainpring of the nation, has far more to gain from a square deal than from the New Deal.

The Great Game of Politics

nominated and only two defeated. The two defeated, Mr. Dunn asserts, "were not actively opposed by CIO-PAC." "And," he continues, "there is nothing startling in this record. It does not evidence that CIO-PAC control of union labor vote is slipping. It merely is the 1946 addition to the record of facts this survey has called to the attention of its readers since 1940."

IT IS possible a study of these primary results may convince more members of Congress that the power they have so greatly feared does not really exist. In the next session they may throw aside their craven subservience to the labor lobby and vote their convictions. Should as now seems likely, Senator Gaffey, of Pennsylvania, who has been one of the most consistent CIO champions be defeated in the November election by Governor Martin or should as also seems likely Senator Byrd of Virginia, listed by the CIO as the No. 1 enemy, be re-nominated, this tendency will be greatly enhanced. In the meantime the efforts of the CIO-PAC publicity outfit to keep up the bluff will be redoubled.

FOR it once it becomes established that it has consistently exaggerated not only its membership numbers but its ability to deliver the membership vote, it is through and through a fraud. And constructive legislation to curtail the dictatorial authority of its leaders and remove the unfair advantages which make them an especially favored group, is almost sure to follow. To avert this the really astute labor leaders who appreciate how much their position is founded upon bluff, who know their complete dependency upon Administration support, favor a conciliatory course. One trouble with that is the difficulty of making the changes. After ten years of truculence, arrogance and threats, one cannot suddenly become pacific and reasonable without a dangerous admission of weakness. A second trouble is that the majority of these CIO-PAC leaders have become intoxicated by their own publicity to a point where they think they actually have got the staff they claim and are entitled to run the country.

THEY not only want co-operation from their friends in public life, they want obedience. And when they don't get it they don't let it go, become critical and punitive.

They are hard masters to serve. An illustration of this is the recent report that the CIO leaders no longer consider Mr. Henry Wallace as their No. 1 choice for President, though Mr. Wallace's obedience has been almost complete. Three things are held against him: (1) he "ducked" coming out against Mr. Truman's emergency labor-draft bill; (2) he failed to stand up strongly against the Case bill; (3) he does not follow union rules in the laying off of workers in his department. When one considers Mr. Wallace's consistent and fulsome advocacy of the CIO and all its works, these criticisms seem trivial and ungrateful. But that is the kind of fellows they are. If the Dunn survey is even reasonably accurate, once their hand is called and it is discovered what bluffers they are, these CIO leaders will have hardly a friend left in politics.

NAMED CHAIRMAN OF U. S. O. CAMPAIGN

Eight-County Area Will Include Bucks County,
It is Announced

GOAL PUT AT $743,926

Eric G. Johnson, vice-president of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, has been appointed chairman of the USO campaign this fall in the southeastern section of Pennsylvania. It was announced today by W. D. Gillen, state chairman of the USO Campaign Committee of Pennsylvania.

Residents of the eight-county area will be asked to subscribe $743,926 in the campaign for 1947 funds. The money will go to support 350 to 400 USO clubs in the continental United States, station lounges and clubs at debarkation points for troops in transit and men on leave, overseas clubs in all sections of the world where troops may be stationed and camp shows entertainment for men in occupation forces overseas as well as veterans in hospitals, Mr. Johnson said. National quota of the USO for 1947 is $19,000,000 for what is expected to be its final year of operation. Pennsylvania's quota is $1,700,000.

Included in the Southeastern Pennsylvania area, of which Mr. Johnson will be chairman, are Philadelphia, Bucks, Berks, Chester, Delaware, Lehigh, Northampton and Montgomery counties.

"Each county will be asked to assume its fair share of the quota,"

Mr. Johnson said. "Community Chests have been asked to accept USO quotas in their fall campaigns. Early indications are that the chests are favorably inclined towards this work and we expect every co-operation from them."

Mr. Johnson is a war veteran and holds the rank of colonel, having served three years with the Adjutant General's office in personnel procurement work and also as Chief of Military Personnel Division of the Third Service Command.

He has devoted the greater part of his civilian life to the life insurance business, starting as an agent and working through the steps of assistant manager and manager to his present position as vice-president in charge of sales. He is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh.

It's Time For Meat Salads

When it's so hot you can't face the thought of standing over the range, and no one feels like eating hot food, anyway—why not settle for a cool, appetizing meat salad as the main dish for dinner? You'll save yourself work, and the family will still be getting the good nourishment they should have.

If you happen to be having company for luncheon or dinner, a meat salad is equally appropriate for such occasions. It is not only tasty and satisfying, but may be as colorful and decorative as you wish to make it.

Meat salads offer unlimited variety to summer meals. They may be made with any kind of cooked or ready-to-serve meat, and the meat may be cut in cubes or ground and mixed with other ingredients, or cut in julienne pieces and arranged on top of the salad mixture. Either raw or cooked vegetables may be used with the meat, and some fruits give delightful flavor contrast.

Still another source of variation is the method in which the salad is served. Sometimes you will want to serve it in a salad bowl lined with greens; another time, you can make individual salads and display them on a large platter. The salad mixture may be molded in aspic gelatin, or used as a filling for hollowed-out tomatoes or green pepper cases. A bowl of salad may be placed in the center of a tray, with a border of other cold foods around it—such as deviled eggs, potato chips, or crackers and cheese.

One of the most important points to remember in making a meat salad is to season the mixture well. A discreet use of herbs will often add just the right flavor touch. At all events, be sure to taste the salad before you serve it.

Here are just a few suggestions for tempting meat and vegetable combinations, with an idea for garnishing each.

Supper Special. Diced luncheon loaf with cooked elbow macaroni, green peas, and diced celery. Garnish with sliced stuffed olives and raw carrot curls.

Bologna and Potato Salad. Cubes of bologna, diced boiled potatoes, and diced cucumber. Garnish with slices of hard-boiled egg and dill pickle strips.

Liverwurst and Bacon Salad. Diced liver sausage, tomatoes, cucumber, shredded raw carrots and chopped crisp bacon. Garnish with hard-boiled eggs cut in wedge-shaped pieces.

Meat Slaw. Julienne strips of corned beef or tongue, shredded cabbage, green pepper, minced onion if desired. Garnish with sliced pickled beets.

Ready-To-Serve Bologna Makes Spicy Hot Dishes

That popular ready-to-serve meat, bologna, has a zesty flavor that is mighty appealing in hot dishes, as well as on a cold meat platter. Whether hot or cold, bologna combines well with a great variety of foods.

Try panbroiling sliced bologna and serving with scrambled eggs or eggs a la goldenrod. Or buy the bologna in a solid piece, and cut it in cubes to add to a vegetable casserole. It's a marvelous addition to baked beans!

The following recipes suggest two other ways to serve bologna hot. The Eggs in Bologna Cups are a hearty treat for breakfast; the Bologna Stuffed Tomatoes will be welcome at luncheon or supper.

Eggs in Bologna Cups
6 slices large bologna,  $\frac{1}{8}$  to  $\frac{1}{4}$  inch thick
2 tablespoons drippings
6 eggs
Salt and pepper.

Brown slices of bologna in hot drippings in a frying-pan. As the meat heats it will curl into inverted cups. Turn the cups over, and break an egg into each. Season with salt and pepper. Add a tablespoon of water to the pan and cover closely. Let eggs steam a few minutes until set.

Bologna Stuffed Tomatoes

The anklets are in that so desirable medium weight, and in sizes 10 1/2 to 12. Only 95c a pair. (1st fl.)

ALL-NIGHT CHEER for children, invalids, the sleepless, is now given by delightful light bulbs of small power that have little, glowing designs in their centers, such as a crucifix, at 50c plus tax; Star of David, Masonic emblem, Eastern Star, all at 75c plus 9c tax; animals for children are round at 65c plus 8c tax; tubular, 50c plus 6c tax; flowers, $1.50 plus 18c tax. All from about one to two watts (costing so little to burn) and said to burn 1000 hours! Snellenburgs Garden Dept. (1st fl.)

JEWELRY REPAIR at its best is done by Snellenburgs, and the estimates are so reasonable. You'll find the Repair Dept. on the little balcony leading up from the first floor Book Dept. So gather together your jewelry casualties—bracelets, rings, pins, necklaces, watches (the department specializes in watches), etc. An exciting side-line is that of making permanent the precious baby shoes we like to keep. The Repair Dept. will dip the shoes in a handsome, bronze-like metal, at $7.95 upward a pair. At $9.95 upward they can be mounted as book-ends, and as ash trays at $7.95 up, and so on. Interesting? (1st fl. Balcony.)

UNUSUAL and delightful are the newest of candles—hand-decorated in contrasting colors and waiting the most heavenly fragrances. The artist who creates them declares these candles are designed after a rare old Persian art. Besides floral and other designs, there are quaint Pennsylvania Dutch designs. The candles are made of hard, expensive waxes that will not bend in summer. Lovely for gifts, $1.65 to $3.50 a pair. Snellenburgs, China Dept. (3rd fl.)

PENNSYLVANIA FARM ROUNDUP

By Suzanne Flick

L. N. S. Pennsylvania Farm Editor
HARRISBURG, Aug. 1—(INS)—The development of farm cooperatives was encouraged by State Agriculture Secretary Miles Horst to help Pennsylvania compete with out-of-state producers shipping by air or other means of fast transportation.

Cooperative marketing reduced producer-to-consumer delivery time by eliminating intermediary handling, Horst pointed out in a statement issued to the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Federation.

"One of our biggest problems concerning supplies to consumers in the years immediately ahead will be overcoming competition from other areas where low cost labor and transportation will tend to reduce demand for Pennsylvania fruits and vegetables," he stated.

Cooperatives were in the best position for offering fresher, more attractively wrapped products at a lower price, Horst said. Farmers' overhead could be reduced through co-operative buying of feed and operating supplies and their profits increased, he added.

"Whether it be in buying or selling, the savings passed on to the ultimate consumer make the farm cooperative a real asset in our post-war economy," Horst declared.

Horst reported cooperatives were thriving in egg and poultry marketing, potato and fresh vegetable sales, the milk and wool industries. Sixty-five farmers' retail markets were operating in Pennsylvania communities this season, according to Pennsylvania State College agriculture experts.

Some of them dated back to Colonial times, they reported, but the majority were developed recently by cooperative organizations.

"In view of the anticipated food shortages which may develop in our country as a result of shipments abroad of our more staple commodities, these markets will prove exceedingly important in supplying food to Pennsylvania consumers," crop observers said.

The State Agriculture Department has reported 592 million pounds of milk were produced in Pennsylvania during June, a two per cent decline from the output of last May and June, 1945.

The total yield for the first half of 1946 was 62.2 billion pounds, a drop of 1.3 billions from the first six-months record of last year. The decrease was attributed to feed shortages and low producer milk prices. The Department said many farmers felt the price boosts authorized by the Milk Control Commission were insufficient for encouraging greater milk production. Milk price boosts ranged from three to four cents a quart and from $1.38 to $1.84 a hundredweight (46½ quarts). The increase was the first for farmers since 1943.

PRESERVE BERRIES, AND LIKEWISE EAT THEM WHILE FRESH

By Edith M. Hopkins

(Home Economics Representative)
Fresh berries are delicious and make their appearance regularly on the family table. Homemakers would be wise to either can or freeze some berries. They will taste mighty good next winter when fresh berries are not available. For canning, just clean and wash the berries thoroughly. Pack the raw berries into jars and fill jars to within a half inch of the top with medium sirup. Keep in mind that the sirup allowance is just a half cup of sugar or less to one quart of fruit. Place covers on jars according to type being used and process in the boiling water bath 20 minutes for quarts and 15 minutes for pints.

For freezing, select berries that are at the right stage of ripeness for eating fresh. Wash and clean well in running cold or ice water. Package in moisture-vapor-proof and liquid-tight containers, filling containers to within a half inch of the top. Use either dry sugar or a 40 or 50 per cent sirup.

Further information on canning is given in Circular 238 and on freezing in Circular 252. Copies of these publications are available at the county agricultural extension office in Doylestown.

ROBSON AGAIN IS AMONG THE EARLY ENTRIES IN RACES

Will Again Drive "Poison Lil" in Contests On August 11th

IS RECORD HOLDER

Sprints Will Feature Fastest Cars and Drivers in Nation

George Robson again is one of the early entries for the next A. A. A.-sanctioned big car auto race program at Langhorne Speedway. The season's third speed show on the fastest one mile dirt track in the world will be staged on Sunday, August 11.

Indianapolis Speedway, will again drive "Poison Lil" in the August 11 events. This is the car in which he scored his first major triumph since the Indianapolis grind when he took the 20-mile feature at Langhorne on July 21.

Robson had not been too successful before he crashed the winner's circle in that event. In the 100-mile national championship event which served as the inaugural at Langhorne on June 30 he finished second. Next he lost a 50-mile event to Ted Horn, of Paterson, N. J. in Atlanta, Ga., when he ran out of gas on the last lap.

Driving "Poison Lil", the car in which Duke Nalon had won so many races, in the season's second Langhorne show, Robson qualified with the day's second fastest time, 35.98 seconds, surpassed only when Rex Mays set a new world's record of 34.66 seconds for the mile in his qualifying run.

Robson also became a record-holder when he won one of the 8-mile sprints and set a new track standard for the distance, 4 minutes, 59.92 seconds. Then he went on to win the 20-mile main event in 12 minutes, 49.99 seconds.

The season's third Langhorne program again will be comprised of sprints, featuring the fastest cars and drivers in the nation. With qualifying trials, the sprint series, a consolation race, match event and a 20-mile main, more than 100 miles of racing will be provided.

Qualifying trials will be started at 12 noon and the first of the sprints at 2:45. The scheduled time for the first sprint has been changed because of the large number of entries expected. The numerous entries—there were 27 at the last show delayed the first sprint more than half an hour. However, the brand of racing that followed more than atoned for the delay.

With the proven speed of the track, more records are in prospect on August 11. The treatment of more than 30,000 gallons of crankcase oil and harrow discing twice to a depth of six inches and rolling has made the racing strip not only dust-proof but a potential provider of records with the calibre of cars and drivers listed to perform there.

CHESTER — Supervision of a summer Bible school is a task in itself but Albina Tedesco has shouldered a burden that would stagger many another person. She will teach a Bible class in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, and must learn Amharic, native tongue of the local tribe.

A NEW COMMUNITY is developing at GLENN-ASHTON FARMS

The development of Glenn-Ashton Farms is more than simply dividing a large tract of ground into small plots for the purpose of erecting houses.

It is the honest belief of the developers that this large beautiful estate should not be enjoyed by one person, but rather by many.

That is why Glenn-Ashton Farms has been laid out in ACRE TRACTS giving everyone enough ground upon which to build that "Dream Home" and live in an air of freedom and friendliness.
